Suggested Pacing: 7-10 Day Lesson (50 minutes or 90 minutes block sessions)

Essential Question(s)
1. Think of effective leaders—either public figures or people whom you know. What qualities do they have in common?
2. What makes a person persuasive?
3. What can we learn about characters from their speech and other character’s speech?
4. What insights into human nature can we gain by reading Shakespeare?

CCRS Standards:
- Cite strong and thorough textual evidence to support analysis of what the text says explicitly as well as inferences drawn from the text. [RL.9-10.1]
- Determine a theme or central idea of a text and analyze in detail its development over the course of the text, including how it emerges and is shaped and refined by specific details; provide an objective summary of the text. [RL.9-10.2]
- Analyze how complex characters (e.g., those with multiple or conflicting motivations) develop over the course of a text, interact with other characters, and advance the plot or develop the theme. [RL.9-10.3]
- Determine the meaning of words and phrases as they are used in the text, including figurative and connotative meanings; analyze the cumulative impact of specific word choices on meaning and tone (e.g., how the language evokes a sense of time and place; how it sets a formal or informal tone). [RL.9-10.4]
- Analyze a particular point of view or cultural experience reflected in a work of literature from outside the United States, drawing on a wide reading of world literature.
- Analyze how an author draws on and transforms source material in a specific work (e.g., how Shakespeare treats a theme or topic from Ovid or the Bible or how a later author draws on a play by Shakespeare).

Writing Options:

Write a Review of Julius Caesar: Write a review of Julius Caesar, discussing the play's strengths and weaknesses. How well did Shakespeare organize his plot? Are the characters vivid and believable? Is the dialogue interesting? Support your analysis with quotations from the play and references to specific scenes.

Persuasive Letter: Knowing all you now know about Roman history, you are being transported back in time to the day of Caesar's assassination. Your assignment is to write an anonymous letter to the conspirators in which you persuade them not to carry out their plans.

Extension Activity (options):
- Show a film version of Julius Caesar after you have completed reading the play in class. Have students evaluate the movie and compare/contrast it with the text.
- Have a Roman Empire day in your class. Have students dress up in Roman costumes, play music from the period, decorate your room as a Roman banquet hall, and have students each bring something for a meal of the time.
- Have students plan a trip to Italy. They should research the cost of the trip, places to go and visit, accommodations and meals; everything they would need to actually make the trip. Students could write about things they would most like to see in Italy. You could have them write a descriptive essay as if they had taken the trip. You could get creative writing about the adventures they had in their travels.

Lifelong Learning (Research Paper):
Research Equality Issues: Much progress has been made for equality between the sexes since the late 1800s, but there are still areas of inequality in modern life. With a partner, research an area of gender inequality, such as differences in pay, women's sports, or career advancement.

OR Teacher-Approved Topic

Student and teachers should continue to revise and edit the students 1st draft of their research paper.

Teacher Notes:
The teacher should pace the lesson according to his/her allotted time and schedule.

Please ensure that you have a copy of the play Julius Caesar because it is not included in our textbook. Parallel text or modern versions are acceptable. Teachers should choose the version which best fits the needs of their students.

Because reading Shakespeare can be difficult at any grade-level, it is suggested that the students employ a variety of reading strategies: active reading, annotation, role play, and audio versions. The teacher should read some parts pausing for clarity and questions.

Teachers should use the Holt, Rhinehart and Winston (Literature textbook) and Writer’s Choice (Grammar and Writing Textbooks) as main resources.
The teacher should utilize formative assessments throughout the lesson to direct instruction.

The teacher should use before literacy strategies to: activate prior knowledge, preview the text, skimming and scanning, set a purpose for reading and make predictions.

The teacher should use during literacy strategies to: maintain an active interaction with the text, identify, analyze and construct the main idea, determine important ideas, draw conclusions, make inferences, monitor understanding, generate questions, and summarize.

The teacher should use after literacy strategies to: determine main idea, draw conclusions, make inferences, monitor understanding through formative assessments, generate questions and build schemata.
