Ramsay High School to Begin Remote Learning Early

Birmingham -- Transportation Department challenges, brought on by COVID-19, have prompted Birmingham City Schools to begin total remote learning for scholars at Ramsay High School starting Thursday, December 3.

Meals still will be available at the school Thursday and Friday for curbside pickup, and on all regular school days throughout December.

All Birmingham City Schools students will have remote teaching and learning beginning Monday, December 7 until the beginning of the winter break. School officials will reassess the pandemic and announce next steps before classes resume in January.
